

Interested in Exploring STEM Careers? Here are a few sites to get you started.

- Visit STEMExplore for a variety of videos, and register for Virtual Career Connections.
- At O*Net Online explore occupations. “The Occupational Information Network (O*NET) is a comprehensive database of worker attributes and job characteristics. As the replacement for the Dictionary of Occupational Titles, O*NET information is the nation's primary source of occupational information.”
Browse STEM occupations and others; the site describes job tasks and activities, skills and abilities needed, education required and more valuable information about a wide variety of occupations. Links for further information, too.
- 100 Best Jobs in America, according to US News and World Reports. Guess what? Most of them are in STEM fields!
- From Purdue University, resources directed towards women interested in pursuing careers in Computer Technology
