

Eye Spy in the Classroom...

Search - Find - Locate - Discover - Observe – Notice - Detect - Hunt - Explore - Spot - Uncover
as many of these Eye Spy items in the time allotted.

Something that shows STEM in your classroom	Something reflective	A model (representation of an idea, object, event, process or system)
Something that weighs about 100 grams	Something magnetic	Something that uses a mobile power source
An invention	A right triangle	A measurement tool
Something transparent, translucent, and opaque	Something to hold H <sub>2</sub> O	A code
A form of communication using sound energy to present information	Something that can change its shape	Developed in the 16 th Century it uses graphite and wood to put symbols to paper.

Eye Spy in the Classroom...

There are many possible answers. Sample answers in red.

Something that shows STEM in your classroom classroom door	Something reflective a window	A model a world globe
Something that weighs about 100 grams 200 paper clips	Something magnetic leg of desk	Something that uses a mobile power source remote control
An invention white board	A right triangle where the wall meets the floor	A measurement tool meter stick
Something transparent, translucent, and opaque a window, a shade, the wall	Something to hold H <sub>2</sub> O a mug	A code a computer
A form of communication using sound energy to present information PA system	Something that can change its shape a piece of paper	Developed in the 16 th Century it uses graphite and wood to put symbols to paper. pencil